Scholarships for Nigerian Women and Girls

With estimates of the literacy rate for women in Nigeria reaching above 50%, the disparity in basic education enrollment, retention and completion among girls in Nigeria represents a serious constraint to its development.

Educating girls is widely viewed as the most effective investment a developing country can make. In fact, the United Nations Population Fund maintains that a 0.3 percent boost in economic growth results from a 1 percent increase in the number of girls finishing secondary school. Since per capita gains in developing countries seldom exceed 3 percent a year, that's a very significant boost.

In an effort to help eliminate some of the barriers that discourage or exclude girls from the benefits of basic and advanced education, PCNAF established its first scholarship program for Nigerian girls in 2003. The scholarship recipients were selected from each of the six regions of Nigeria, giving the program national scope. The program targeted girls enrolled in the final level of junior secondary school (grade 9), and supported the scholarship winners for the full three years needed to complete their secondary school education. Fifteen girls received scholarships through that program.

Building upon the success of the inaugural program, PCNAF currently sponsors three scholarship programs for female Nigerian students: one for secondary school girls in northern Nigeria, and two for college students (one for students in the United States, and another program for students in Nigeria).

Nigerian Girls Scholarship Program

This program provides financial assistance to needy girls entering senior secondary school in six states in northern Nigeria, where only 4 percent of females complete secondary school. The program supports the scholarship recipients for the three years that it takes for them to graduate. Each scholar is chosen on the basis of her academic record, financial need and service to her community. PCNAF is collaborating with the Kano-based Inclusive Community Education and Development Association (ICEADA) to implement the program.

Young Women's Scholarship Program

The Young Women's Scholarship Program is for female Nigerian undergraduate college students in the metropolitan Washington, DC area. It was created in an effort to help ease the financial burden of students with outstanding academic and leadership potential that are facing difficulties finding the money to stay in school because they have an international student visa. These students are not allowed to seek outside employment to finance their education. The program provides financial support to young women entering their junior or senior year at a participating college or university.

2017 Application

Robert Pastor PCNAF-FON Nigerian Female Leaders Scholarship

PCNAF has partnered with Friends of Nigeria (FON) and American University of Nigeria (AUN) to create a scholarship program at AUN that is administered as part of the President's Crisis Fund. The purpose of this fund is to provide assistance to AUN students who experience sudden, unexpected financial problems. Students in need of such emergency support are evaluated on a case by case basis by the AUN President and Vice President for Finance to determine which students are most deserving. In addition to need, the focus is on students who have a strong academic record as well as significant participation in community service. The scholarship program targets female students from northern Nigeria who meet these criteria.

Scholarships to Help International Students Afford U.S. Colleges

American colleges and universities are among the best in the world, and for many students from around the globe, attending college in the U.S. would be a dream come true.

Every year, thousands of students from nearly every continent flock to campuses across the U.S. to earn their degrees and take what they've learned back home. If you hail from another country and have always wanted to study in America, you don't have to be rich to achieve your goal.

Though most of your scholarship funding will probably come from your chosen college, there are a handful of more general scholarships geared specifically toward students from around the globe.

National Health Service Corps

Scholarship Program

<https://nhsc.hrsa.gov/scholarships/>

You can apply to the Scholarship Program if you are committed to primary care and accepted to or enrolled in an accredited U.S. school in one of the following primary care disciplines:

Physicians (MD or DO)

Dentists

Nurse Practitioners

Certified Nurse-Midwives

Physician Assistants

Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP)

The scholarship pays tuition, fees, other educational costs, and provides a living stipend in return for a commitment to work at least 2 years at an NHSC-approved site in a medically underserved community.

For each year of financial support (up to four years), the student agrees to serve one year (minimum two years) at an NHSC-approved site in a high-need urban, rural, or frontier community across the nation.

Service begins upon graduation (and completion of primary care residency training for doctors and dentists). The NHSC helps scholars find a practice site that's right for them. When in service, scholars earn a market-rate salary, paid by the employing facility.

Scholarship payments other than the living stipend are federal income tax-free.

The Scholarship Program accepts applications once each year. Applicants chosen to receive the scholarship are notified no later than September 30.

NEHA / AAS Scholarship

<http://www.neha.org/professional-development/students/scholarship>

Available to applicants pursuing a Bachelor's Degree in Environmental Health or Postgraduate Degree in Environmental Health Sciences

Sponsored by:

National Environmental Health Association (NEHA) Logo American Academy of Sanitarians Logo

Both the National Environmental Health Association (NEHA) and the American Academy of Sanitarians (AAS) have established education in environmental health (EH) as one of their principle goals. NEHA and AAS believe that structured education at the undergraduate and graduate levels is important to an individual's successful professional development in the EH field and that continuing education is a vital component in an EH professional's continued career growth.

As a result, the NEHA Board of Directors established a scholarship fund in 1984 that began with a gift of $1000 from Dr. A. Harry Bliss, a NEHA Past-President, and personal donations from NEHA Board Members. Because of their strong belief in scholarship programs, AAS also made a financial donation to the NEHA program, allowing NEHA to increase the number of undergraduate scholarships awarded. As the program grew, NEHA offered scholarships to both undergraduate and graduate students pursuing studies in the EH field. In 1996, NEHA and AAS decided to jointly fund undergraduate and graduate EH scholarships and call them the NEHA/AAS Scholarships. Funding for the scholarships is continually obtained from donations, proceeds from association fund-raisers and NEHA/AAS budget commitments. By offering the NEHA/AAS Scholarships to eligible undergraduate and graduate students, NEHA and AAS hope to positively contribute to the future of Environmental Health.

ATTENTION GRADUATE STUDENTS

DOE Computational Science Graduate Fellowship

<http://www.krellinst.org/csgf/about-doe-csgf/eligibility-program-requirements>

The DOE CSGF is open to U.S. citizens or permanent resident aliens who plan full-time, uninterrupted study toward a Ph.D. at an accredited U.S. university. We encourage applications from students in engineering and the physical, computer, mathematical or life sciences who meet the following eligibility requirements. The fellowship provides four years of support, but must be renewed each summer.

ELIGIBILITY

The following criteria will be used to determine the eligibility of those applying for DOE CSGF. At the time of application, eligibility will apply to:

Undergraduate seniors

Applicants with no more than B.S. or B.A. degrees who are not enrolled in graduate school

First-year graduate students (M.S. degree or Ph.D. students without an M.S. degree)

During the fellowship period, fellows are required to be enrolled as full-time graduate students at an accredited U.S. college or university and conduct research in areas of interest to the DOE. The summer should be spent conducting full-time research related to the completion of one's degree program, enrolled in classes or on a practicum assignment.

This equal opportunity program is open to all qualified persons without regard to race, gender, religion, age, physical disability or national origin.

FREEDOM TO FOCUS ON RESEARCH

The DOE CSGF program's support allows students to focus on academics and research without excessive teaching or other departmental support activities. The fellow's department must waive any teaching requirements beyond one term.

ANNUAL RENEWAL AND AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS

Fellows must renew their appointment each year by submitting an online application that demonstrates:

Their academic performance is acceptable

They're progressing toward completing the approved program of study

They've completed a practicum

They're conducting research in areas of interest to the DOE

The fellow's status and how much funds are expected to be available can affect the award's length.

The DOE attempts to provide adequate funding to meet the costs of graduate school. Therefore the Krell Institute must approve in advance additional graduate responsibilities, such as a teaching assistantship. Fellows may accept scholarships, prizes and other payments (including veteran's benefits) that do not require a service.

Vivian Drenckhahn Student Scholarship

AMOUNT $1,500

DEADLINE TBA for 2016

http://www.sophe.org/APP_Drenckhahn_Scholarship_2015.pdf

Open to student members of the Society for Public Health Education (SOPHE), this scholarship is awarded to two students working on degrees in health education. Applicants must demonstrate financial need and future career plans to work as public health educators. They must also be in good academic standing with their current program, enrolled full-time and include transcripts and degree requirements with the application form.

Tate Law Offices Scholarship

Tate Law Offices PC will award three scholarships totaling $3,000 to students who are high school juniors or seniors or students enrolled at two-year or four-year colleges and universities in the United States. To apply for a scholarship, students should submit an original essay of approximately 500 words on the following topic:

How has distracted driving caused by texting and using social media or mobile apps affected you personally? What actions can local, state, and federal leaders take to help minimize traffic accidents related to distracted driving without overly restricting personal freedoms? What can individuals do to hold themselves accountable to practicing safe driving habits? Each winner will receive a check from the law firm Tate Law Offices PC. These funds must be used to pay for education-related expenses. Any applicable federal, state, and local taxes on the scholarship will be the sole responsibility of the scholarship recipients. The scholarship contest is open to juniors and seniors in high school and students enrolled in two-year and four-year colleges and universities in the United States. Applicants who are 17 years old or younger will need to provide parental consent to enter.

Applicants should submit an essay as a Word document or PDF, accompanied by a digital photo (jpg or png) of themselves, along with their name, school, and phone number.

Dollar Amount: $1,500 Deadline(s): July 31, 2017
