DOCUMENT DELIVERY

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

REPRINTS DESK
The Content Workflow Company

How long does it normally take to receive a document?

Most documents are delivered within minutes to an hour or two. However, if the citation is obscure or there are limited holdings in the world it may take a bit longer to deliver. Keep in mind that this service will only delivery IEEE content.

How are documents delivered?

Documents are delivered electronically via a download link to a PDF. Most of these PDFs are native and will be in color for no extra charge. All requests are treated as Rush and are typically delivered within minutes to an hour or two. All documents will be delivered to your @morgan.edu email.

How do I access my account?

If you are an Engineering Student or Faculty member an account has been automatically created for you by the Morgan State Library. To access your password, visit <https://www.reprintsdesk.com/login/forgotpassword.aspx> and enter your @morgan.edu email address. You will receive your updated password via email within a few minutes. Access to Reprints Desk is only available to Engineering Faculty and Students. For questions please contact Michelle Hammond or Dr. Richard Bradberry.

How do I place an order?

After you have successfully logged into Reprints Desk, click on the 'Single Article' button and enter in as much of the citation information as you have. Then select your department and University status from the list of drop down options. Finally, select 'Place Order' to order the document.

How much does a document cost?

All articles from IEEE are paid for by the Morgan State Library for engineering students and faculty. You can expect a typical IEEE document to cost $26.50, so please order cautiously.

Can I save documents?

All documents are delivered as links to a PDF download. The link is active for a single download. Articles can be printed and saved to your desktop. Please contact Customer Support if you are unable to access the document.

Can I order content outside of IEEE from this service?

IEEE is the only approved resource to be ordered via the Reprints Desk Service.

How do I obtain my Username and Password?

If you are an Engineering Student or Faculty member an account has been automatically created for you by the Morgan State Library. To reset your password please enter your @morgan.edu email into the forgot password retrieval system here: <https://www.reprintsdesk.com/login/forgotpassword.aspx>. Should you have problems accessing your account please contact Michelle Hammond or Dr. Richard Bradberry.
